Spring Boot Dependency Injection

Spring Boot uses the Spring IoC container to manage objects called beans.

Dependency injection allows an object to receive its dependencies instead of creating them directly.

Constructor injection is generally recommended because it makes dependencies explicit and supports immutability.

Spring Boot REST APIs

@RestController is used to create RESTful web controllers.

@RequestBody maps an incoming HTTP request body to a Java object.

DispatcherServlet acts as the front controller in Spring MVC.